Dear Sir,

I lived in Palm Beach county for almost two years and during the same timeframe, I enjoyed the beautiful reefs of this beautiful county as a scuba diver. I am still going back to Palm Beach at least once a year to refresh my memory of the beauties that Palm Beach reefs has to offer.

I received an email from diver-friends in the area that a new project can potentially destroy Horseshoe and Casino reefs if executed. As a citizen and admirer of Palm Beach county reefs, I would ask you and your fellow engineers to take a second look at the project and reassess the damage to the area. I believe an environmental-friendly project even if it is costlier today would benefit the county more in the long term.

Thanks for your attention!
